

Address: 255 Jones Hollow Road

Contemporary Building Name: 255 Jones Hollow Road

Historic Building Name: North School

Present Use: Residence

Historic Use: School House

Architectural style: Vernacular

Date constructed: 1900 (Assessor)

Description: The gable end of the small house faces the street. A tripartite picture window is its chief feature. There is a 1-over-1 window in the south side elevation in front of the south wing. Both small wings have shed roofs. The front door is in the south wing, along with two horizontal windows.

Significance: The former North School is not well-preserved, having lost its identity as a building type. It is historically significant because it was a one-room schoolhouse.

Sources: Ransom, David. Historical and Architectural Resources Survey, Town of Marlborough, Connecticut. April 1998.

Notes: